THE QUEST FOR INDIVIDUALITY: Your Exciting Challenge at Centenary College

Your Quest... Centenary's Involvement

Centenary seeks to provide its students with a basic understanding of human affairs and problems . . . to equip them to think clearly, honestly and constructively, and to communicate effectively . . . and to introduce them to the arts and sciences that they may enjoy the best of the heritage of civilization. The College purposes to challenge its students to serve society by exemplifying the highest Christian ethic. Centenary prepares the student for immediate participation in today's increasingly complex society.

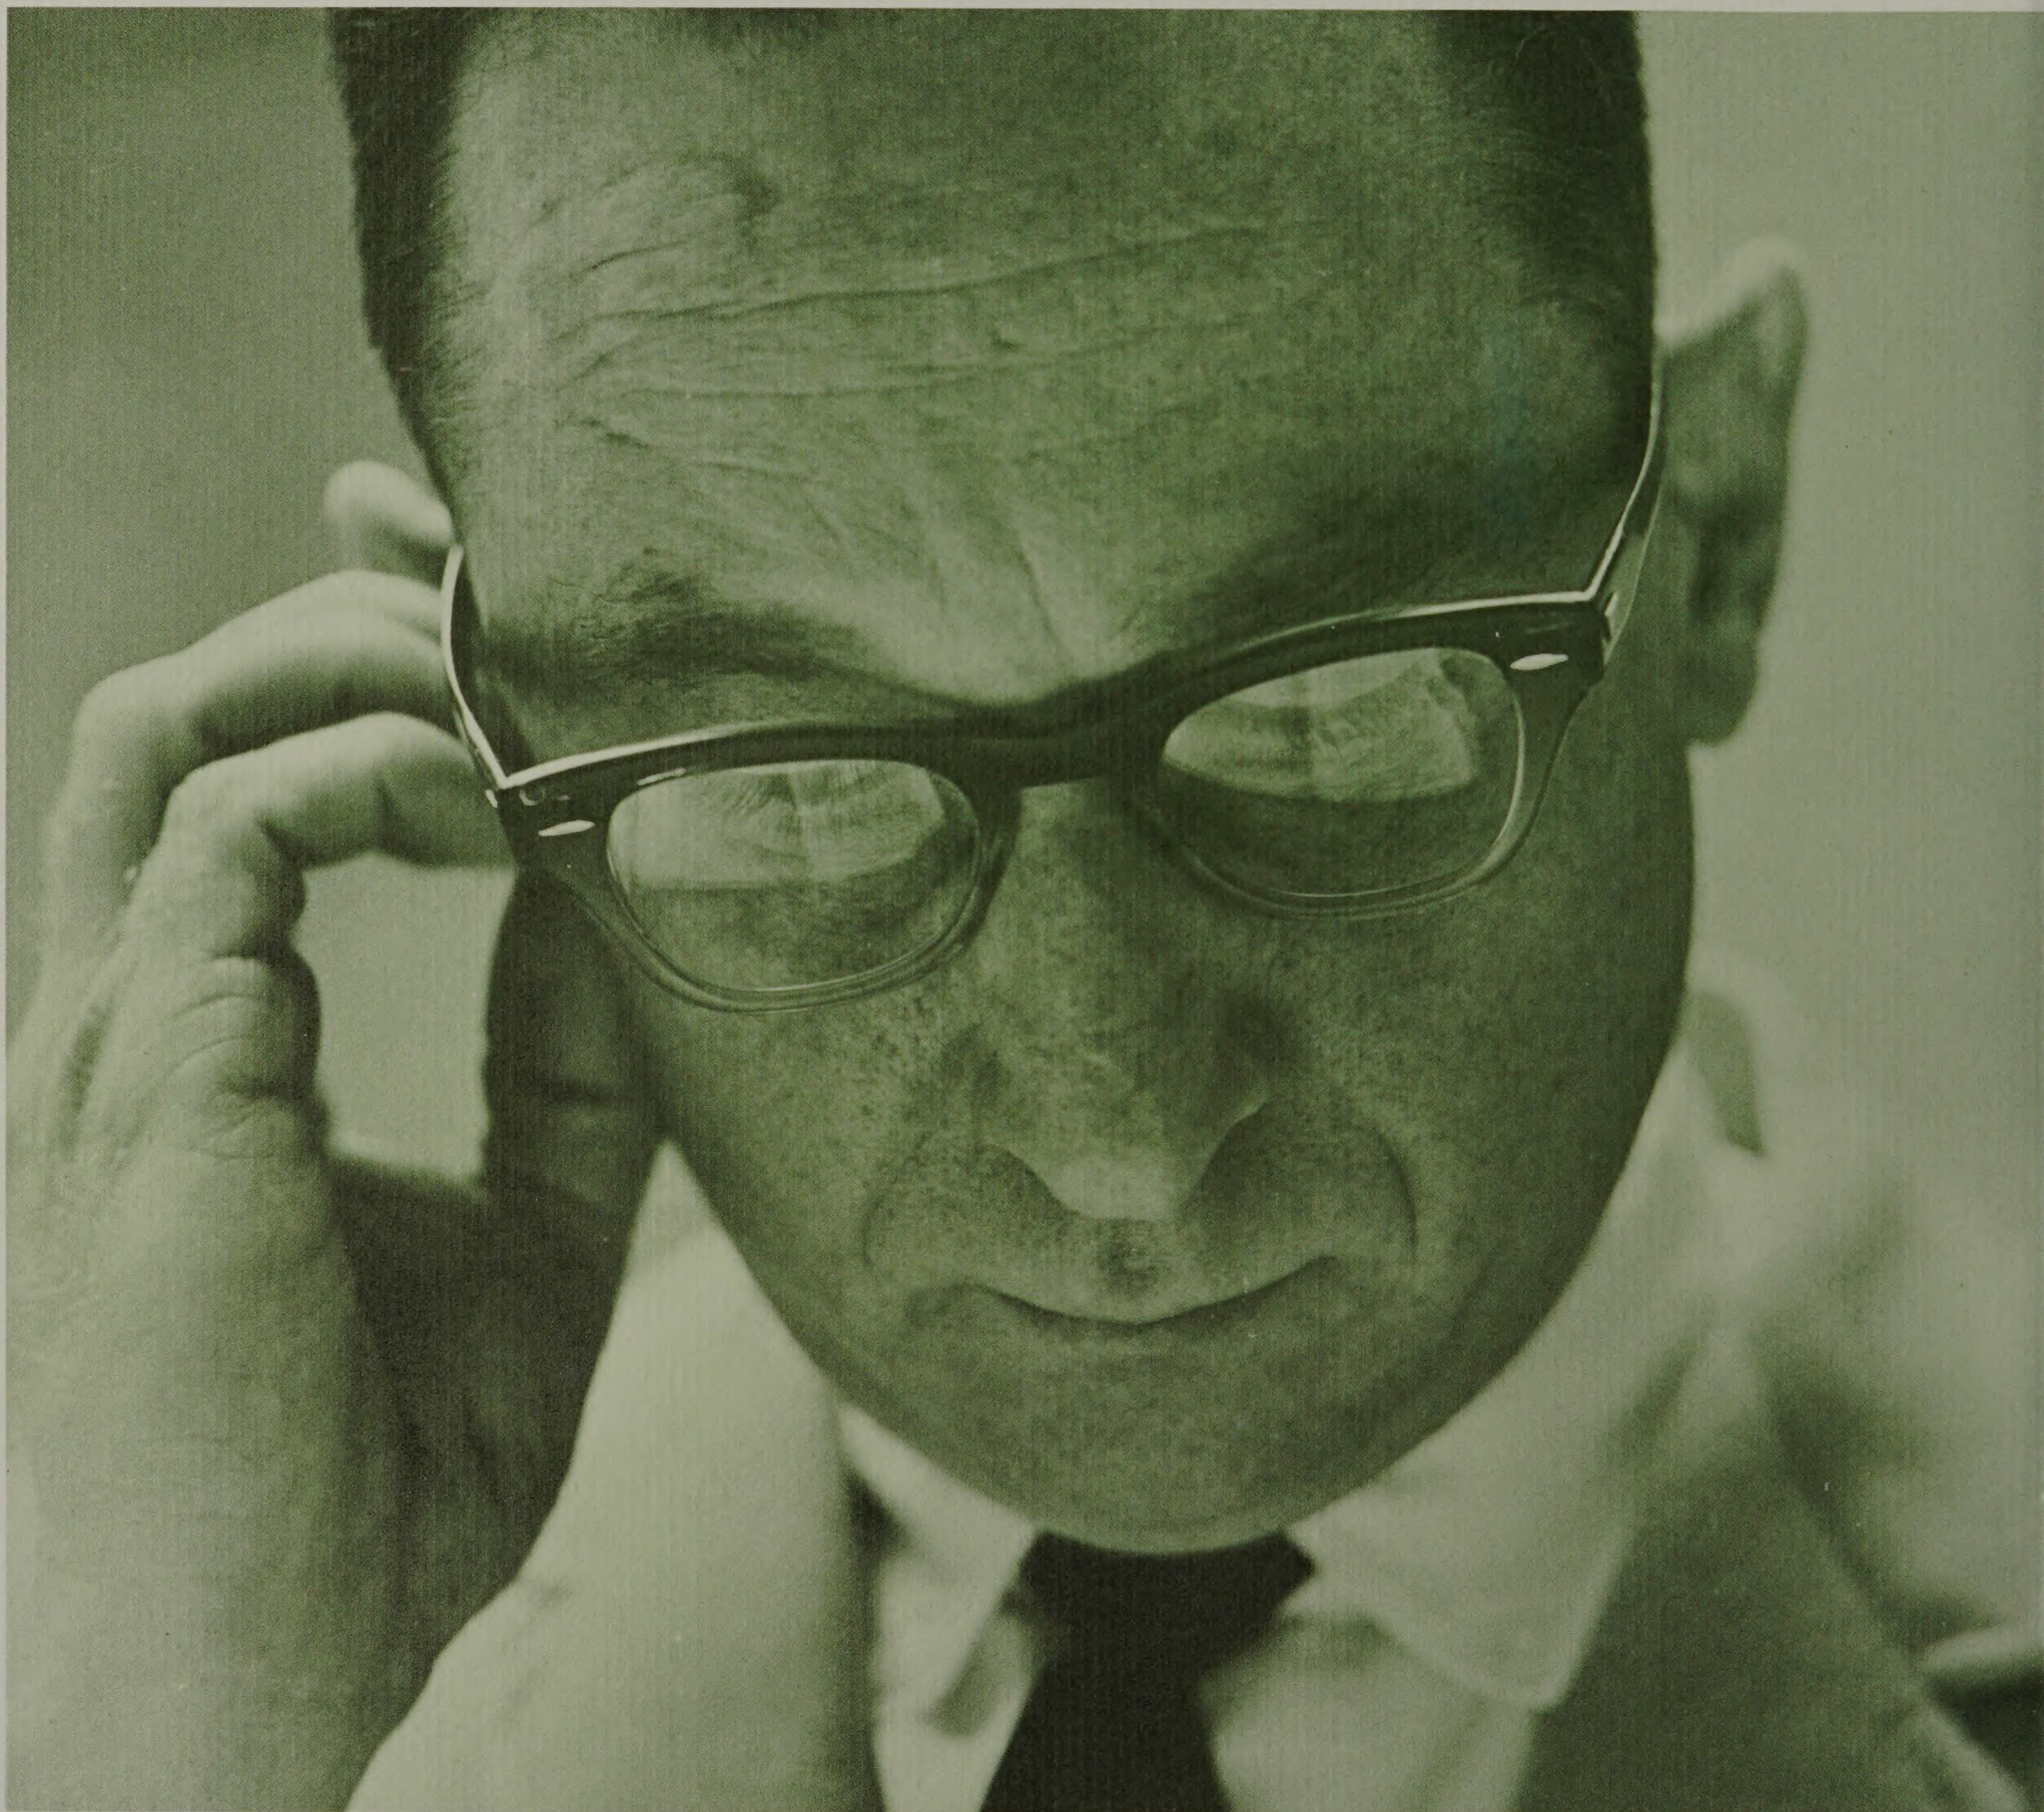

Your Quest . . . Centenary's Involvement

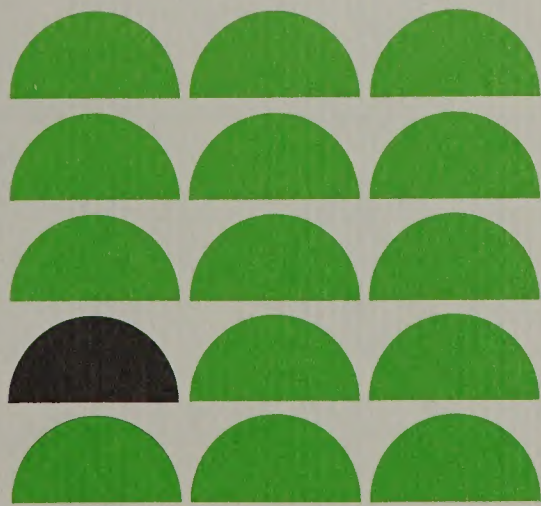

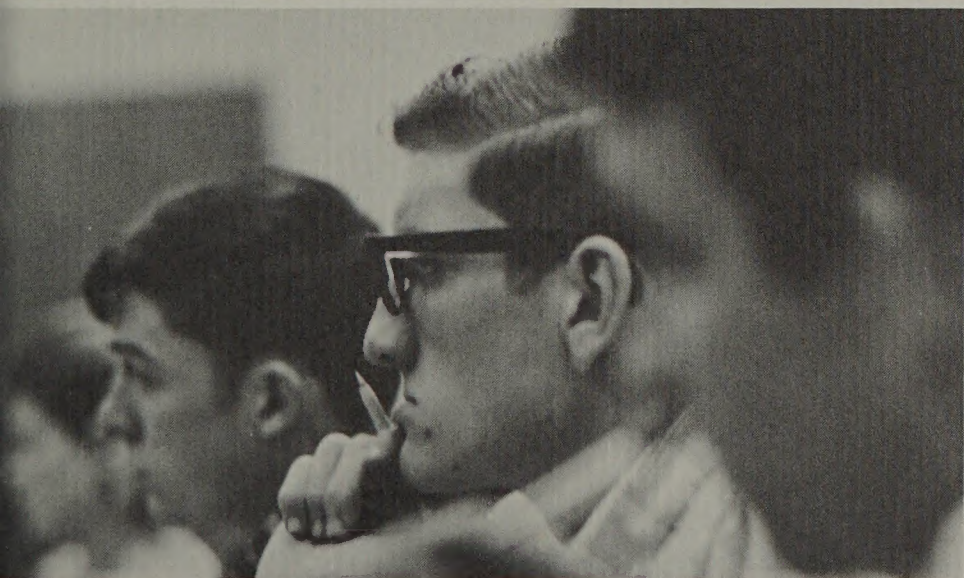

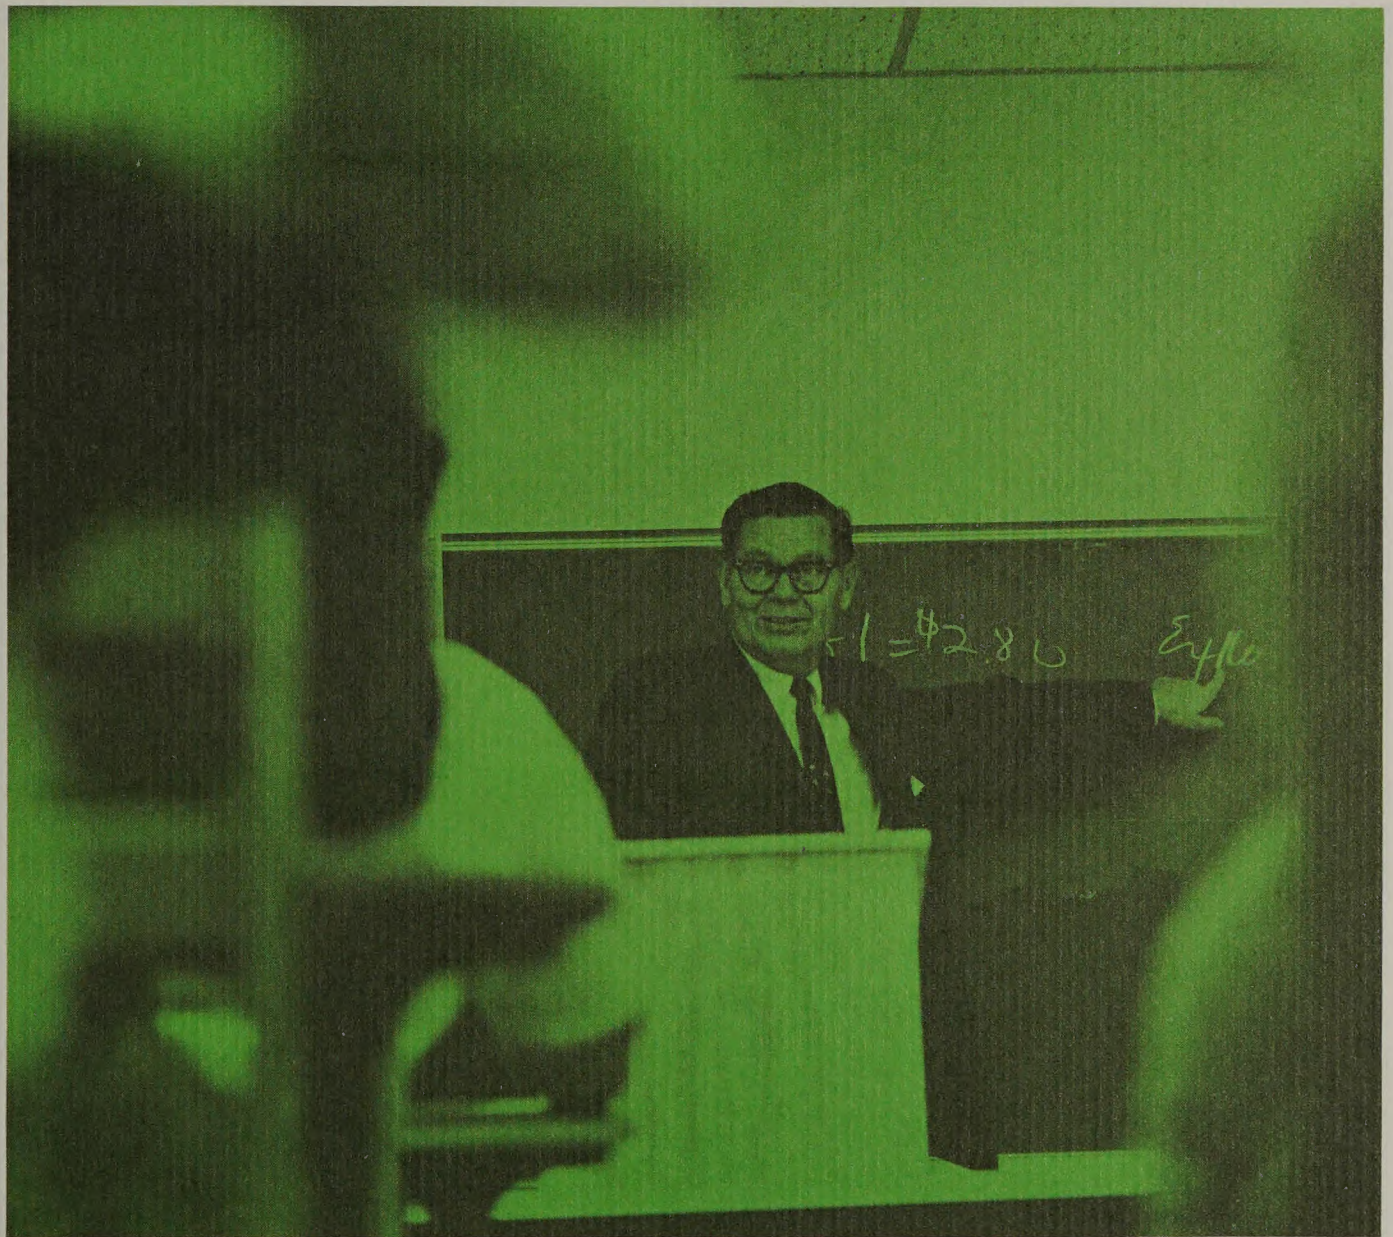

Centenary seeks to provide its students with a basic understanding of human affairs and problems . . . to equip them to think clearly, honestly and constructively, and to communicate effectively . . . and to introduce them to the arts and sciences that they may enjoy the best of the heritage of civilization. The College purposes to challenge its students to serve society by exemplifying the highest Christian ethic. Centenary prepares the student for immediate participation in today's increasingly complex society.

A Faculty that Inspires

The faculty at Centenary College inspires. It challenges the student to make a questioning examination of the world in which we live.

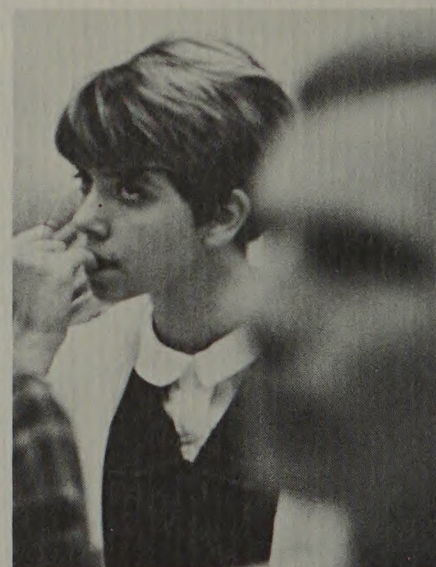

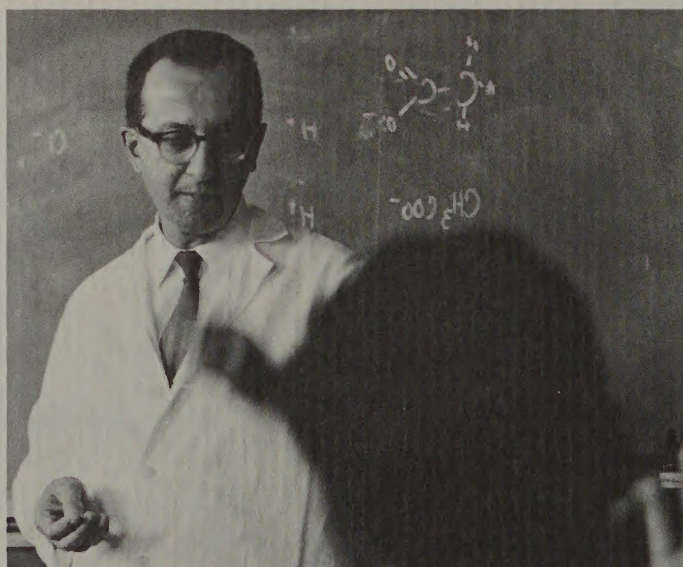

Centenary provides quality instruction to its students. Faculty preparation (65% of the faculty hold Ph.D. or other terminal degrees) and the ability to arouse the curiosity of the student are two measures of faculty excellence.

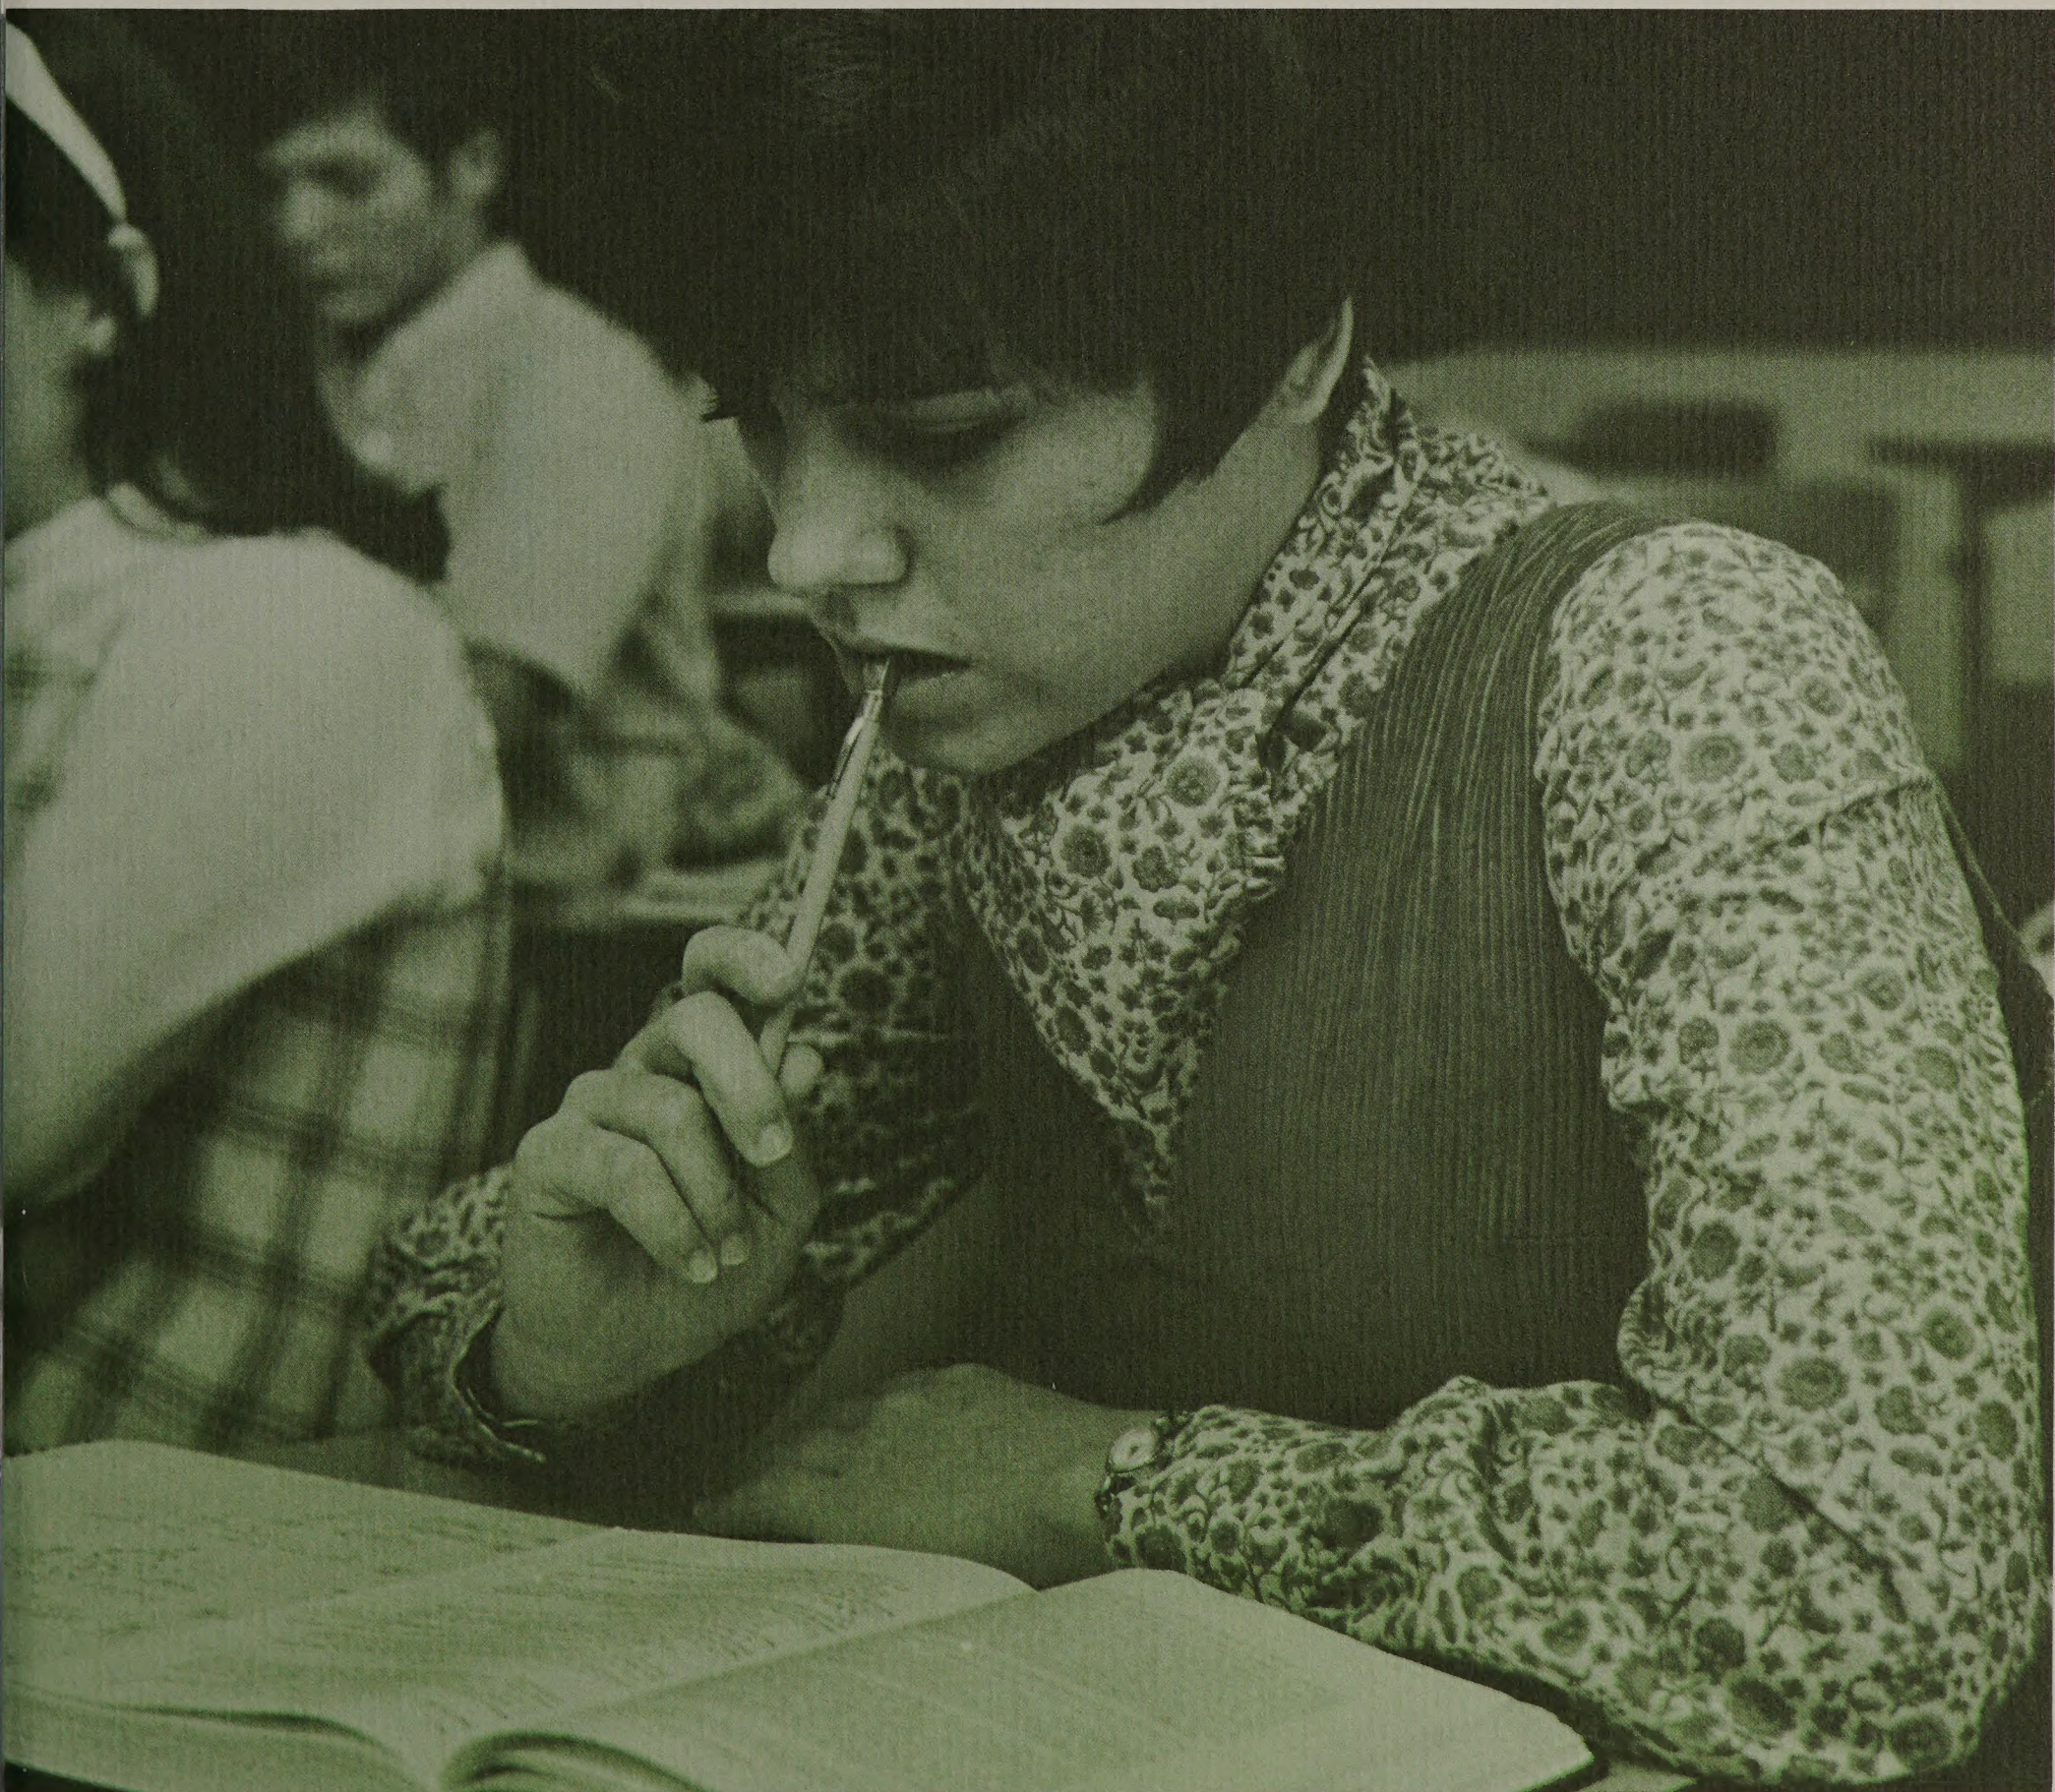

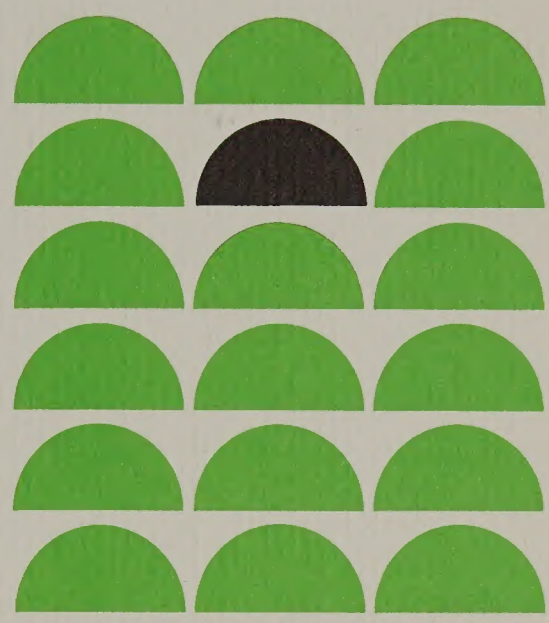

Small Classes: A Personal Education

Small classes are an integral part of a Centenary education . . . they provide the personal dimension. Students work closely with their instructors — both in and out of the classroom — to establish a meaningful communication. The average class at Centenary has a 12 to 1 student-professor ratio. The concerned, inquiring student — and the great teacher — are welded together in the same pursuit of excellence.

Environment, Size, Involves You in the Pursuit

The thing that happens between people — student to student interaction — is another important contribution in your quest for individuality.

Of Centenary's student body of some 1,000, a majority comes from Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Last year, the rest came from 35 states and seven foreign countries. Thus the Centenary student is exposed to different and diverse backgrounds and cultures . . . another important element in liberal education.

A Curriculum that Provides Background for an Effective Life

The liberal arts curriculum at Centenary is designed to prepare the student to lead an effective life in our changing complex society. A

Centenary education is a broad, diverse education that provides the student with an understanding of the environment in which we live today. It provides the student with the intellectual tools to achieve his personal goals.

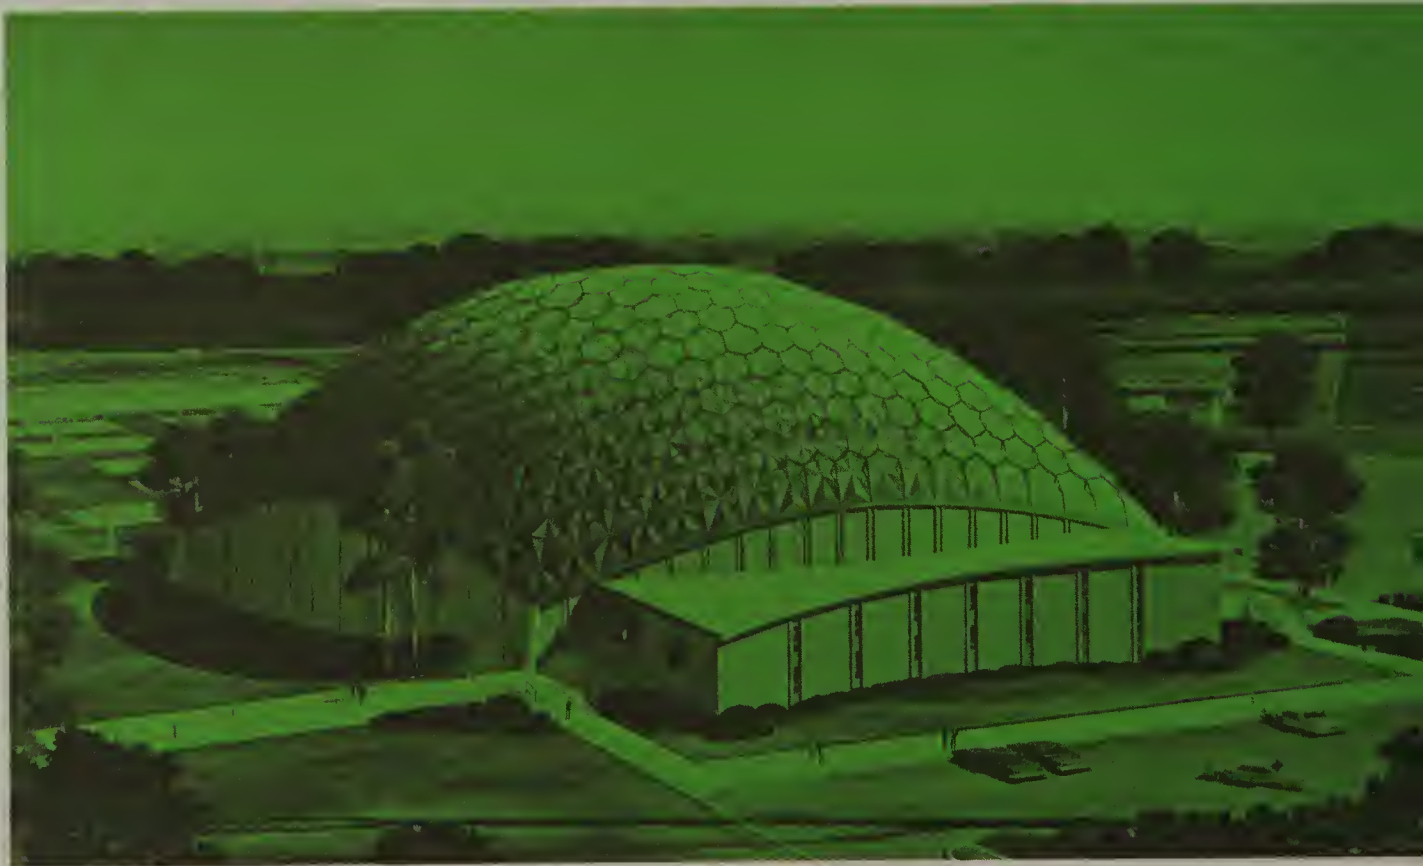

The Changing Dynamics of Education

Centenary College is alert to the changing dynamics of education. Students are involved in making decisions that affect their own affairs. Through such responsible bodies as the Student Senate, students are given considerable authority to regulate student affairs. One new concept just introduced is a program whereby students who previously established a 3.8 grade average can select their own schedule, by-passing the normal core curriculum requirements for a degree.

A Changing Campus

Our modern campus, spread over 40 acres, is constantly undergoing dramatic change to keep pace with advancements in the classroom and the laboratory. Centenary has launched a new building program and new buildings presently are under construction. The Marjorie Lyons Playhouse offers the best possible classroom and workshop facilities for speech and drama students, in addition to its magnificent stage and auditorium.

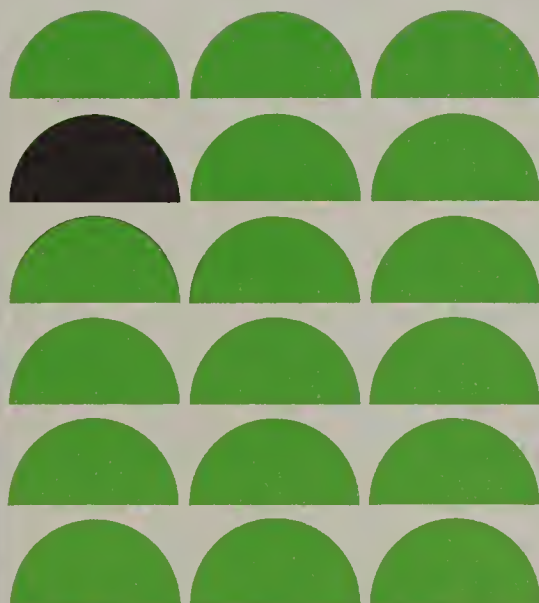

A new music building, new library, and a modern playhouse, chapel, and student activities buildings are at the heart of the college complex.

To Develop Individual Capabilities

A wide variety of organizations and activities will involve the Centenary student in the pursuit of his individual interests. The student can develop his capabilities, through participation in musical, drama, art, honor society, service, athletic, intellectual and cultural organizations. Four social fraternities and three sorority chapters also are active on the Centenary campus. The opportunity to develop one's interest outside the classroom abounds at Centenary.

OUR LOCATION is at the hub of a great circle that includes such metropolitan centers as Dallas, Houston, Oklahoma City, Little Rock, Jackson, and New Orleans; all within easy driving distance of Shreveport. The Centenary campus is one of the traditional beauty spots of the city where stately old pine trees and magnolias blend with the Georgian buildings to create an ideal atmosphere for the pleasant and thoughtful pursuit of education.

OUR CHARACTER is that of a lively community which strives to challenge each student to serve society to the best of his ability, not only during his college years, but during his lifetime. One of the goals of the Centenary educators is to teach each student to live a productive life in harmony with his fellow man. Ours is a Christian community where individuality is encouraged and respected and where each member of the community is taught to think clearly and honestly; and to communicate effectively.

OUR HISTORY of educational service is a long and worthy chronicle. The college had its beginning as an institution founded by the state at Jackson, Louisiana, in 1825, the oldest institution of higher learning in the state. In the early 1900's Centenary was moved to Shreveport and has continued to make sure and purposeful growth both in size and in the quality of its service.

OUR PROGRAM OF STUDY leading to the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Music degrees, includes many innovations designed to make education more relevant to the student. A clinical-tutorial approach to psychology and teacher education takes the student out of the classroom into the reality of real life situations; the "three-two" program enables engineering students to combine the liberal arts with professional training in their field; the Washington Semester program permits students to study government first hand in the nation's capital; and the "pass-fail" system affords students an opportunity to study in special areas of interest without the pressures of maintaining a grade average.

FULL ACCREDITATION is accorded Centenary College from every appropriate agency, regional and national. It is one of the oldest members of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and is recognized by the General Board of Education of the United Methodist Church as one of its strongest institutions.

MODERN RESIDENCE HALLS for both men and women are maintained by the college for the convenience of the students. All are centrally heated and air conditioned and include spacious lounges, kitchens and laundry facilities. The dormitories along with the Dining Hall and Student Union Building form an "inner campus" around which the social life of the college revolves.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA

ADMISSION PROCEDURES

You may apply for admission as soon as you have completed your Junior year in high school. The first semester of your Senior year is the best time to apply.

Academic Qualifications

In considering your application, we will be guided by four important factors.

1. The type of curriculum you have been following.
2. The quality of your work in academic courses.
3. Your personal qualities. Although an interview is not required, it is welcomed.
4. Your scores on entrance examinations.

High-School Curriculum

We prefer a student following a college preparatory curriculum including:

- 3 or more units of English
- 2 or more units in a foreign language
- 2 or more units in Social Science
- 2 or more units in Mathematics (Algebra and Geometry)
- 1 or more units of Natural Science

Academic Record

We prefer a student who has ranked high in his class. A graduate of an accredited high school with a "C" or better average generally receives favorable consideration.

Entrance Examinations

You may choose either the American College Testing Program (ACT) or the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board (SAT) as your entrance examination. Scores from either program are acceptable. It will be to your advantage to take the test you select in the Fall of your Senior year. Check with your high school guidance counselor for registration materials, dates and places where the tests will be given.

Early Admission

Certain gifted and carefully-selected students who have completed the Junior year in high school may enroll as regular students at Centenary College, by-passing the Senior year in high school. Students admitted to this program do not receive a high school diploma, but they are able to begin advanced college work earlier. To be eligible for early admission, a student must have had three units of English, three of mathematics, two of science and two of Natural Science, and he must have the personal recommendation of his counselor and principal and the approval of his parents. It is necessary to provide scores from one of the entrance examinations. A personal interview may be required.

Advanced Placement

Centenary College participates in the Advanced Placement Program of the College Entrance Examination Board. Applicants who have taken college level courses in secondary school and received scores of three, four or five on the Advanced Placement Examinations may be considered for Advanced Placement and/or credit by the department for which the test was written.

COSTS

Effective September 1970

Tuition and General Fee

Arts and Science Curricula . . .	$650.00 per semester
Music Curricula	$700.00 per semester

Room and Board Fees

Dormitory Accommodation . . .	$160.00 per semester
Food Service	$275.00 per semester

You should budget an additional $100.00 for books and supplies and approximately $300.00 for personal needs such as laundry, clothing, recreation, etc. Normally, payments are made by the semester. It is possible, however, to schedule payment for three equal installments, September 1, October 1, and November 1. Deferred payment plans are also available through Education Funds, Inc., Box 4, Howard Building, Providence, Rhode Island 02903 and The Tuition Plan, Inc., 575 Madison Ave., New York, New York 10022.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

To be considered for any form of financial assistance, a candidate must (1) demonstrate his eligibility for admission by filing all forms and fees, and receiving an offer of admission; (2) filing an application for Financial Aid, provided by the college; (3) filing the Parents Confidential Statement (PCS) supplied by the College Scholarship Service (CSS), Princeton, New Jersey. If the applicant has already filed the Family Financial Statement (FFS) supplied by the American College Testing Program (ACT), Iowa City, Iowa, this need analysis will be acceptable. Forms are available at local high schools.

Scholarships and Awards

Students of outstanding promise who (1) have placed a premium on scholarship and intellectual achievement demonstrated through such recognition as valedictorian, National Merit Finalist, Academy of Science, etc. or (2) have developed exceptional proficiency in curricular activities such as music, athletics, dramatics, etc. may request consideration for grants ranging from nominal amounts to full tuition, depending upon merit and financial need.

Grants-In-Aid

Students with substantial financial need who must have financial assistance to pursue their education at Centenary, may request consideration based on financial need alone. Grants will range up to full tuition and will frequently be accompanied by loans and work opportunities in an amount adequate to meet the candidate's financial need.

Loans

There are several loan funds available to entering students. The largest of these is the fund established by the National Defense Education Act. Students and their parents are encouraged to utilize loans as a means of financing the cost of college.

Part-Time Work and Work Study Programs

A substantial number of students help finance the cost of their education through part-time work either on campus or in the community. Such employment should be limited so that it does not interfere with satisfactory academic progress.
